

THE BEST TEACHER RESOURCES OF 2020

brought to you by Learners Edge

1 BOOKS

Unstressed-Dr. Alane Daugherty writes about managing stress through positive emotions. (Learners Edge chose this book for Course 5116.)

This Book is Anti-Racist-Tiffany Jewel's book is good for young people and adults. It's reflective, informative and hopeful!

Balance with Blended Learning-Catlin Tucker shares her ideas for reimaging learning and reclaiming your life.

2 BLOGS AND ARTICLES

Mindshift-Explore the future of learning!

The Chalk Blog-Find relevant advice and applicable strategies to implement right away.

Tchers Voice-Uncover diverse techniques to help students grow.

Youth Voices-Revel in this student written blog with concrete examples of ongoing discussions.

3 VIDEOS AND FILMS

LIKE-A documentary about finding balance in a digital world.

Love Them First: Lessons from Lucy Laney Elementary-One year and one principal fights to get her school off "the list".

Self Care Videos for Teachers-Every teacher likely needs these right now!

4 PODCASTS

Truth for Teachers-Join author, Angela Watson, for inspirational messages each week.

The Cult of Pedagogy-Jennifer Gonzalez and guests tackle tough topics and provide key takeaways.

TROL (Rapid Transition to Online Learning)-A variety of speakers with useful tips and tricks along with real solutions for those teaching online.

5 WEBSITES

Teaching Tolerance-Critical information to teach about active participation in a diverse democracy.

Edutopia-An idea in every article or video!

Common Sense-Media insights for teachers, students, and families.

ReadWriteThink-Resources and lesson plans for language arts including interactivity!

6 WEBINARS

Using Digital Tools to Support Students Learning-Tons of ideas for your online classroom.

Distance Learning Playbook Webinar Series-Meet the authors of The Distance Learning Playbook and discover a few new methods to try.

Understanding Anxiety-A three-part series on anxiety and the impacts to students, teachers, and schools.